A Note From Pastor Mark

Dear Christian Friends,

Over these past weeks and months we have been using Luther's Small Catechism as our guide for our weekend worship services. Over these past weeks I have caught myself quietly reflecting in my office affectionately remembering Pastor Bengston calling on me and other students to recite from memory portions of the catechism.

I remember Pastor Bengston sharing with us that "we have a choice as to how we choose live our lives. With a closed fist or an open hand. Christians are called to live with open hands."

When God's love and respect fills our hearts, we live life following a different set of rules than the world's. Everything is above board without hidden agendas. Honesty and integrity rule. We know how much God loves each person, and it is a privilege to love and care for others as God commands. There is no getting ahead in line, there is no one-upping, there is no stealing of any kind—not one's place or position, not one's possessions, not one's turn, not one's friends, not one's peace, not one's reputation, not one's story to tell.

Everything in our relationship is openhanded.

There are so many ways we human beings steal in some form. Besides the above mentioned, one walks away with another's pen or pencil, a piece of candy from the store bin, a coin or bill found on the floor, supplies from the office, use of office computer or copier for private business. The list could go on and on.

All of these are petty circumstances, but stealing nonetheless. And without Jesus, we are convicted by the law of God's commandment, "Thou shalt not steal."

But Jesus forgives us if we ask him. And he calls us to a higher calling: "Love your neighbor as yourself." In other words, if we truly love others, we will not infringe our desire over their right of ownership. We will honor others as much as we respect ourselves. We will choose the kindlier action. Open-handed mind and body position allows us to give more than we receive. In giving back to God, we are told God no longer wants "dead" sacrifices as in the Old Testament, but "living" sacrifices.

God wants our "life" to be a sacrifice by sharing God's love generously the way he loves us. We do this by living with a hand that is open to receive and give. What are some ways you can show love and respect to those living around you? To your family? To your co-workers? To your church community?

Can you think of a model or mentor who demonstrates loving others?

When your heart convicts you of disobeying God's commandment, how do you go about taking care of that guilt?

How do you maintain integrity as a child of God?

Ponder these things with your family. Pray and give thanks to God for the model which God gives us in the person of Jesus Christ. I invite you to pray this prayer as you reflect on living a sacrificial life.

Lord, you have called us to be your children. You have entrusted us with your Holy Spirit. You have given us your Word as our guide. Help us to be obedient and to come to you in prayer, praising and thanking you for being our God, repenting and asking for forgiveness when we have strayed. Hold us to your standard, not the world's. In your holy name. Amen.

I'll see you in worship. Peace,

Pastor Mark

On Sunday, August 16, our Annual Church Picnic will be held at Deicke Park in Huntley following the 10:45 a.m. service. Please sign up for a dish to pass-salad, side dish or dessert and indicate the number of children you will bring as we have games and prizes for them. Hamburgers, hot dogs, soda, water, juice boxes and all paper goods will be provided.

You can sign up online starting July 13 or in Crossroads on 7/19, 7/26, 8/2 and 8/9.

See you there and bring your friends!

It's here and it's just for you! What? you may ask. Active Christian Parenting! This is a wonderful opportunity to strengthen our parenting skills, enjoy the company of others who are on the same journey, and have fun in the process. And it's all coming to SOTP!

Beginning October 4 and continuing through November 9, we'll meet at the church on six Sundays from 4:00-6:00 p.m. (And please note: there are no Bear games scheduled during this time!) Led by Chuck and Sharon Little, with assistance from Chris and Amy Brittain, Steve and Lori Conway, and Nick and Sarah Wolf, we'll explore the joys and challenges of parenting children ages 5 through 12. (Parents of older children are welcome to attend, but these are the years that will be our focus.)

Topics will include:

- I) Styles of Parenting,
- 2) Cooperation and Communication,
- 3) Responsibility and Discipline,
- 4) Building Courage and Self-Esteem,
- 5) Understanding and Redirecting Misbehavior,
- 6) Active Parenting for School Success.

The class is limited to 25 parents. A cost of $25 per family includes material, child care, and a meal for the kids. Registration begins the first of September. We share this with you now, however, so you can plan to join us for six Sunday afternoons, beginning October 4. Watch future newsletters, the Friday Flourish, and the Sunday video screen for further information.

Three great truths: first, parenting is a gift from a gracious God; second, it isn't easy; and third, we can all strengthen our skills. How about YOU?

Ministry Musings

Recently I read an article in the June issue of 'The Lutheran'. The title, "What Sprinkler did you run through today?" caught my attention. The article pointed out how we so often let the simpler joys of life, like running through the sprinkler, gets pushed aside by all of the 'things we need to get done!'

As I reread the article a second time, I thought of how often we (I) get caught up in the everyday "stuff" that I miss the sounds, smells and sights around me; like the neighborhood kids playing in the parking area behind me, the smell of a grill firing up, or the way the sun reflects off of the puddles after the recent rain. One of my great joys is sitting on my tiny deck after the sun has set and looking at the way the lights around my driveway reflect star patterns on the pavement while sipping a glass of wine. Yet many evenings I don't revel in the sight because I have "too many things to do before bed"!

So many of our conversations as Christians, especially at worship, are about the things and meetings coming up this next week or the next month. We check with each other to see if the agenda is done, or if the task assigned has been completed. What would happen if at worship time we enjoyed the simple pleasure of being together and in worshiping our God? What if we saw our time on Saturday night or Sunday mornings as the time to purely let God and each other how important they are to us and how much we love and care for them? What if the question, "how are you today" was answered with 'not so good, please pray for me' instead of "fine or great" when we're not?

I believe giving each other the gift of the simple joys of life is ministry in one of its purest forms. Jesus said we must be like little children to inherit the kingdom of God. Maybe enjoying the simple pleasures of life as children do is a way to start. So...listen, watch, sniff, taste and see that God is good! And maybe, run through the sprinkler!

Trends Sex and Dating Apps

The term "age aspiration" is one that captures the fact that our children and teens long to be seen, be treated, and feel like they are older than they actually are. Age aspiration works itself out when our kids engage in behaviors that they think will make them appear and feel older.

One avenue kids are traveling in this quest is to use dating apps that are designed for adults. These apps allow people to peruse potential dates or hook -up partners for either short or long term encounters and relationships. For example, even though Tinder is an app for adults, about 7% of Tinder users are ages 13- 17. Parents, you need to be aware of which apps are being used by teenagers to facilitate dating relationships and sexual encounters. Besides Tinder, these include skout, Badoo, Hot or Not, MeetMe, Omegle, and Grinder, an app dedicated to facilitating male to male encounters. Talk to your kids about God's design for love, sex, and marriage. Help them to set relationship borders and boundaries that are truly fulfilling and liberating.

Latest Research

Marijuana Potency

Here's another reason to talk to your kids about the dangers associated with using marijuana. Experts are now saying that the potency of marijuana is 3 times what it was 20 or 30 years ago. THC is the psychoactive chemical in marijuana that makes people get rise in THC levels is because the science related to the production of pot has improved. Producers are now meeting the demand for greater potency by cross-breeding strains of marijuana. Experts say that this crossbreeding has resulted in marijuana becoming dirty, as there has also been an increase in contaminants, including bacteria, fungus, and butane. We continue to sound the alarm regarding our need to educate and warn our kids about the dangers associated with the use of marijuana. Legalization doesn't make it healthy or right.

QUICK STATS

- Half of the teen and young adult drivers who perish in automobile accidents are under the influence of alcohol and or marijuana prior to their crash.
  —Columbia University's Mailman School of Public Health
- 9 out of 10 children and teenage concussion victims struggle with their school grades for months afterwards. —Pediatrics

From the Word

Leo Tolstoy once said that "anything is better than lies and deceit!" He understood just how destructive deception is to relationships and trust. Still, in our brokenness, we have a bent towards weaving tapestries of lies as we pursue selfish personal gain and seek to avoid the consequences of our actions.

The Scriptures are clear from beginning to end that God's people are to be people of the truth. We are to pursue the Truth as put forth by the Incarnate Word, Jesus, and in God's written revelation of Himself, the Scriptures. But we are also to pursue the truth by always telling the truth.

The Book of Proverbs is filled with sayings that point us to wisdom. Those who are wise are people who are developing character and discernment. In Proverbs 12:22 we are reminded that a wise person is a person who pursues and tells the truth. God "detests" the lips of the liar, but takes great "delight" in those who tell the truth.

Parents can either pass on wisdom or foolishness to their children. This happens through both our words and our example. Do you tell the truth? And, do you model truth-telling? Are you pointing your kids to a life that God "detests," or to a life in which God takes "delight?"

Sports Sanity—Walt Mueller, CPYU President

With the arrival of summertime, many of us will be spending time on the sidelines watching our kids play organized sports. The pursuit of Godly, balanced sports parenting is important in today's highly competitive world. All of us should pause and ask ourselves, "Am I bringing glory to God in the way I approach my child's play?"

Plato said, "You can learn more about a person in an hour of play than you can in a lifetime of conversation." A twist on Plato's words ring true today: we can learn quite a bit about a parent in a few minutes of observing them watch their own

HOT QUOTE

"I don't take well to bullying. I never have. I'm not a person that will be bullied. I'm not a person that will stand by watching other people bullied. I am a girl, I have feelings and people think I take no s!*# and I'm tough, tougher than nails, but I'm a human being."

child play. What do you see when you look in the mirror? As you evaluate the role you play in the lives of the kids you parent and/or coach, consider these questions:

Who's out on the field? Unfortunately, some parents see their kids as a second chance to fulfill dreams they themselves never realized. If you are living vicariously through your kids and their play, you are setting the table for them to burn out and to resent you.

What's on your mind? The win-at-all costs mindset coaches and parents increasingly adopt can get to be too much for our kids. When we are focused on winning, we care less about instruction, our children's welfare, and the development of character.

What's in your heart? Are the desires of your heart to see your child do his/ her best? Or, is your heart set on a standard or level of achievement that is impossible for your child to attain? Pressuring kids to excel beyond their ability and potential is counter-productive. We must remember that it's only a game . . . and they're only kids! Let them play and have fun!

What's coming out of your mouth? Too many parents berate coaches, officials, and the players on the field. . . sometimes even their own kids. I've watched young kids cower and teenagers become bitter in response. And even if they do respond with improved performance, are those critical attitudes qualities that we want to nurture in our kids? Children learn from example. If we're going to scream anything, it should be words of praise, encouragement, and acceptance.

In this day and age of increased activity, it's realistic to assume that most kids will spend some time during their childhood in a uniform participating in some kind of organized sport. Hopefully, you and I will be on the sideline cheering them on. It would be a good idea for all of us sports parents to pinch ourselves and come back to reality. We'd realize that there's a greater chance of getting hit by lightning than of our child growing up to sport a world series ring, wear the Olympic gold, or skate around holding the Stanley Cup.

Our children will grow up with memories of their childhood sporting experience. Those memories will be either positive, or negative. Parents, you hold the key to shaping those memories. Do so to the glory of God rather than seeking your own glory through the accomplishments of your kids.

STEWARDSHIP TALES

Now it came to pass that, as the time of vacation drew near, a certain member of the church thought of cool streams where fish were found, and his children thought of sandy beaches by the sea, and his wife thought of the mountains. And this church member spoke to his family and said, "The hot days are here and my work is overwhelming. Let's go where the fish bite, the cool breezes blow, and the land is beautiful." "That sounds great," said his wife, "but there are four things we must do before we leave." He said "I can think of three, we ask our neighbors to water our flowers, arrange for the grass to be cut, and we have our mail and papers held, but what is the fourth?" "The fourth is important, that we pay our church pledge in advance. We will have more money now than when we return from vacation, and it will be more difficult then." The husband replied, "you are wise to think of the church. They have expenses that need to be met while we are gone, so I will do it."

NAME TAGS—A REMINDER

More of our members are wearing name tags. It really helps visitors and new members meet other members. One easy way to make everyone comfortable is to wear your name tag. If you have misplaced your name tag, you can order a new one at the "Welcome Center" in the Narthex/ Crossroads. It also helps Pastor Mark with names as our membership is over 1,000.

FOOD PANTRY

SOTP is committed to the Grafton Food Pantry program, which meets the needs of families and individuals who do not have the means to purchase food and other essential items. Food collection is the first Sunday of the month. Food items needed this month:
